FOREIGN.

By the Faun, from St. Sebastiana, arrived at Baltimore.

PARIS, December 11.

Yesterday, before mass, his majesty the emperor and king, seated on the throne, surrounded by princes, ministers, grand officers of the empire, members of the senate and of the council of state, received in the palace of the Tuilleries a deputation of the legislative body.

The deputation was conducted to an audience of his majesty, by a master of ceremonies and his assistant, introduced by the grand master of the ceremonies, and presented by the prince vice grand elector.

The deputation being admitted to the foot of the throne, Count de Fontanes, president of the legislative body, delivered the following address to his majesty:

"Sire—The legislative body recognize your greatness every time it has the honor to approach your majesty's throne. To you every year is an age of glory; every return to your capital is a new triumph.

"When you were far from France, your genius did not abandon her: it dwelt in the midst of us. At the first appearance of the enemy, your people whom you beheld on the banks of the Danube, hurried in crowds to your threatened frontiers; they fled with precipitancy as if you had been present.

Your last exploits and the happy peace which has succeeded them will aggrandize the territories of your allied princes. Some important unions will complete the system of this vast empire, of which they are members, and which has you for its chief and founder.

But Caesar in the zenith of his power respected rights which were not his own. He marked out himself the limits of the priesthood and of the empire. Religion will not cease to protect itself by the throne which re-established it, and the successor of St. Peter will always be more dear and venerable to us, in blessing the successor of Charlemagne, in the name of the god of peace, whose will changes empires; but whose worship does not change.

Whosoever attaches himself to you will be aggrandized, and whosoever seeks a foreign influence is threatened with an approaching disaster. Your ascendancy must be obeyed, which is at once, the counsel of heroism and policy.

Sire, you have said that you will remain but a few days in this palace; that your first passion is the love of France. The word has resounded in every heart. You announce to-day that the victory has cost no new sacrifices; the legislative body return you thanks therefor. But it fears not to be contradicted by a brave and generous nation, when it tells you that a Frenchman will do every thing possible for a sovereign who has covered them with so much glory; and who has judged them so well in recompensing their sacrifices with all his love."

To which his majesty replied.

"Gentlemen, the president and deputies of the legislative body; the sentiments you have expressed accord with my own. I know the attachment of your body to my person. France needs a monarchy moderate but strong. The present epoch ought not only to be distinguished by the glory of the arms of France, but also by the prosperity of her commerce, by the wisdom of her laws, and by the splendor of her arts, sciences and literary acquisitions.

To bring France to her present state, I have surmounted the greatest obstacles, I and my family will ever sacrifice our dearest affections to the interest and welfare of this great nation. By the help of God and the constant love of my people, I will be enabled to overcome every obstacle which shall oppose the accomplishment of my great designs.

I desire to live thirty years longer, in order to be able to serve my subjects thirty years more, to consolidate this great empire, and to see all the prosperity that I have conceived for this dear France."

The audience being finished the deputation was re-conducted with the greatest ceremonies.

UNITED STATES.

On the 12th of Dec. the minister of the interior submitted his report to the legislative body. His excellency terminates his report by the examination of the political relation of France with foreign powers. The report announces that "a peace with Sweden will be signed; that Holland, equally bruised by France and by England, will undergo some changes; that our relations with the U. States of America are only suspended for the moment, and will immediately resume their natural channel, (Marche naturelle;) that the part of Poland added to the Grand Duchy of Warsaw, and freed from the yoke of Austria, is about to prosper under the laws of the king of Saxony; that a true friendship unites Russia to the French empire—lastly, that the kings, allies of France, will receive an increase of territory; and that France herself acquires new sources of prosperity, and new openings for her commerce by the means of the countries incorporated with the empire."

BAYONNE, Nov. 25.

For several days past it has been announced that his majesty king Joseph, will soon pass through this city on his way to Paris.

To-morrow the troops forming the first division of the army destined for Spain will begin to arrive. They announce the arrival of more than 100,000 men coming from Germany, who will pass through our city and Perpignan. Every day 3, 4 or 500 men of the reserve of 1806, 7, 8 & 9 arrive in our city. They are armed and equipped immediately. Bayonne never offered such a military appearance. The troops will be received with joy by the inhabitants. Already every thing is ready for the reception of our august emperor.

December 16.

A private letter from Perpignan, dated the 13th inst. states as follows:

"Gerona is in our power since the 10th of this month. We do not know yet the articles of capitulation—but it appears that the garrison will remain prisoners of war."

MADRID, Dec. 4.

His majesty makes known to the army, that the Spanish army commanded by the Duke del Parque, which had imprudently advanced on the right bank of the Tormes, has been completely defeated on the 28th of Nov. at Alba, by the 6th corps of the army and the 6th division of dragoon—15 pieces of cannon, several waggons full of ammunition, 6 stands of colors, 10,000 muskets, and more than 2,000 prisoners fell into the hands of the imperial troops. The enemy besides left 2000 dead on the field of battle, amongst whom were one general, several colonels, and a great number of other officers. The remains of the army took advantage of the night to save themselves in different directions, leaving their arms and baggage. With that army the last prop of the party of the insurrection was destroyed. There is reason to believe that the isolated bodies, & the different parties dispersed through the provinces, being pursued with vigor, the tranquility of the interior will soon be established.

The Marshal of the Empire,
Duke of Dalmatia.

The following order of the day was published the 20th of November, at Madrid:

The king gained yesterday at Ocaña a memorable and decisive battle. Two hours were sufficient to annihilate that army of insurgents, which hoped in a few days to make its entry into Madrid. It was entirely destroyed or dispersed. 4000 men dead on the field of battle, 20,000 prisoners, of which 800 were officers—between 30 and 40,000 muskets, 20 stand of colors, 30 pieces of cannon, an immense quantity of baggage, are the result of this brilliant victory.

The Governor General
BELLARD.

The passage through Bayonne of the troops of the first division of the army of reserve was to cease the 4th or 5th of this month, December. The destination of these troops is for Victoria, where the head quarters will be established. The marshal duke of Elchingen left Bayonne for Spain the 1st of this month, Dec.

CHEROBOURG, Dec. 2.

Yesterday arrived the American brig Tryphenia, Haller, from Philadelphia, in 54 days, cargo, wood, from Campeachy, with a supercargo.

Died, at Paris, on the 6th December, Peter Dufournel, formerly physician, and patriarch of the free-masons, in the 120th year of his age.

We learn by letters from Petersburg, that the official confirmation is received of the news of a complete victory gained by the Russians in Moldavia over the Grand Vizier, in which the latter lost 16 cannon, standards, &c.

FROM TURKEY.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 26.

After the capture of Ishmael, the Russian troops advanced on the right bank of the Danube, and formed the blockade of Silistria. The Russian fleet has already bombarded that place. The Asiatic troops who are in the army of the grand vizier, desert in great numbers, because on account of ancient customs, they only keep the field from the beginning of June to the end of August. In the actual situation of affairs, the grand vizier has no other step to take but to risk a battle, or to retire to Adrianople, and there intrench himself. It is with a great deal of difficulty that he can procure provisions for his army at Kotschuck, by the means of the Danube.

LONDON, Dec. 11.

An Austrian messenger of the name of Mayntz, has dispatched for Prince de Stahremberg. They are the first he has received since the conclusion of the negotiation with Austria. They communicate the terms of the treaty, and we suppose order his excellency to quit the country, in virtue of the 16th article, which is as follows:

"XVI. His majesty the emperor of Austria, desirous to co-operate in the restoration of a maritime peace, accedes to a prohibitory system with respect to England, adopted by France and Russia, during the present maritime war. His imperial majesty shall break off all intercourse with Great Britain, and with respect to the English government, place herself in the situation he stood in previous to the war."

December 14.

The Austrian messenger has brought proposals to our government for a general peace, to be negotiated at a congress to be held in some city in the north-west of France. Should these proposals be rejected, Prince Stahremberg has orders to leave this country. This important subject will be the first that will occupy the marquis Wellesley's consideration.

A proposal for a Cartel has also been received. Commissioners will probably be sent immediately to some town on the coast of France to settle the terms of the Cartel.

Yesterday a cabinet council was held at the foreign office. Present, the Lord Chancellor, the Marquis Wellesley, the Earl of Liverpool, Bathurst, Westmoreland, Harrowby, and Chatham, Lord Mulgrave, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Secretary Rider, and Mr. R. S. Dundas.

The Marquis Wellesley has appointed his brother-in-law, Charles Cullen Smith, Esq. to be the under secretary of state in the foreign department.

The hon. Henry Wellesley is appointed minister plenipotentiary to Spain in the room of Mr. Hookman Frere.

Yesterday all the king's ministers, in full dress, paid their respects to the Persian ambassador. He has a family, which is not considered large, of only sixty-three children; but it is considered as a mark of peculiar good fortune, even in Persia, that he had six children born to him on one and the same day.

Public Sale.

ON Saturday the third day of March next at one o'clock in the afternoon, will be exposed to sale before the door of the Coffee House, the undermentioned valuable Land, in two lots, lying within the limits of the corporation of Alexandria, viz.

Eighteen acres and 45 perches, or there-by, bounded by Gladen's Run, by the lands of Mr. Alexander, col. Peyton, Mr. Sherron and others.

Eight acres, known by the name of Purkes' garden, bounded in part by King-street continued, by the property of col. Peyton, Mr. Hooff and the last mentioned lot.

These lots of ground are understood to be perfectly clear of the conflicting claims which have lately been agitated with respect to a part of the land in their vicinity.

A title deed will be made and immediate possession given. The purchaser will be required to give bond for the purchase money, payable by equal portions in one, two, and three years, bearing interest from the date, and a lien retained on the property till payment.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28.

The State of the Country.—Is the commerce of the United States in a more prosperous situation than it was before Mr. Jefferson's election?—When the constitution was formed, and the government under it organized, the situation of the country was lamentable. The nation was deeply in debt and without credit. The old confederation had run down, and with it all nationality. The authority of the state governments had in some instances been set at defiance, and insurrections had arisen to an alarming degree in one of the states. The treaty of peace between the United States and G. Britain had never been carried into effect by either party. Indian wars ravaged our inland borders; and the British held their posts on our frontiers.

In this distressing situation, gen. Washington, and his federal friends who assisted in forming the constitution, took charge of the public affairs of the nation. Scarcely had they begun to carry into effect their excellent schemes of policy, when we became embroiled with Great Britain. Spoiliations to an immense amount were committed by her cruisers upon our commerce, the spirits of a large part of the country were irritated, and a loud call for war resounded from one den of democracy to another, through the nation. Gen. Washington did not look to the mob of a large city, as a thermometer of public opinion. He consulted with wise and patriotic men, not with Frenchmen and Irishmen on the best course to pursue. The result was, Mr. Jay's mission to the British court; and that issued in the celebrated treaty of 1794. In compliance with the terms of that treaty, G. Britain gave up the western posts; we conformed on our part; arrangements were made to adjust the claims of both parties by commissioners; and in the end, the people of this country received several millions of dollars, as a compensation for their losses by British depredation, and peace and friendship again subsisted betwixt us and that nation. In the mean time, our trade proceeded with new life and vigor, and increased beyond the most sanguine expectation. This period cannot be forgotten; and must it not be acknowledged by all honest men, that the prosperity of the country was altogether without a parallel.

The Jeffersonians were deadly enemies of this treaty. It expired during the presidency of their leader, and he refused to renew it, although the offer was made by the British government. Why was this refusal? Will any honest man in the U. States, say at this time, that this treaty was not advantageous in a high degree to us? This enquiry is not made of Irishmen, nor Frenchmen, who have not sense enough to discern the true interests of the country, nor integrity enough to pursue them, if they could discern them. But let the intelligent and upright natives of the soil, say on their consciences, whether the treaty of 1794 was not, in its effects, highly advantageous to this country? It was, however, rejected; and from the time of its expiration, to the present moment, what has been our situation? Has our trade been more prosperous? Have our farmers been benefited by the embarrassments of commerce? Is our revenue increasing? Are our seamen in any better predicament, either in point of wages, or protection? It is a fact that some of the members of congress from Kentucky, and Tennessee, and some from Virginia, and Georgia, and a number of Irishmen in the country, lament with much apparent sorrow, over our sailors impressed on board the British navy. But is it worthy of notice, that this excessive sensibility comes from parts of the country, where there are few or no sailors. If we were looking for real-sympathy on this subject, we should naturally expect to find it in the middle, and particularly in the eastern states, where the sailors belong, and where their friends reside. The truth is, it is a political stalking horse, rode by those who have ambitious, or revengeful views to answer, and has no sincerity in it. When we find them yearning over our seamen imprisoned in France, and when we discover any effectual measures taken to relieve them, we may begin to think more favorably of the Jeffersonians. At present, they are entitled to but little credit for their pretences. If the commerce and the seamen of the U. States, have any real friends, they are in the commercial states.

How is it with the farmers! Have they not learned by dear experience, that their prosperity is intimately connected with commerce? Are their circumstances mended, by a Jeffersonian administration of government? Does the produce of their farms find a readier market, or command a better price, than it did in federal times?—Why is it that we hear them so often anxiously enquiring after the repeal of the non-intercourse, and the opening of a free trade once more? Are their taxes more easily paid, are their families better dressed, are they able to settle their sons, who come of age, or furnish their new married daughters, more easily than before the country became encumbered with embargoes, non-intercourse, &c. &c.

When these questions are satisfactorily answered, a multitude more are ready to be asked. In the mean time, we should be happy to be informed by some shrewd ministerial calculator, how much nearer we are to the establishment of "the freedom of the ocean," than we were twenty years ago? Have all the combinations of French intrigue, and French force, drawn Great Britain one inch nearer to the point of surrendering this last plank of her national safety, we say nothing at present, of the advantages or disadvantages, which we should be likely to realize from the establishment of this fanciful principle. The only enquiry now is—are we in a fairer way of obtaining it, than we were when Mr. Jefferson first came into office. If not, what has been gained in this particular, by his patriotic services?

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, February 27.

[Taken for the Alexandria Gazette.]

The Speaker read to the house a report from the secretary of war, relative to military pensions—Ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Seybert presented the petition of sundry merchants in Philadelphia, praying for relief against sundry bonds, the conditions of which cannot be complied with. Referred to the committee of commerce and manufactures.

Mr. Stanford offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee of ways and means be instructed to prepare and report a bill fixing and allowing adequate compensation to the clerks in the public offices. Agreed to.

Mr. Minor, from the committee to whom was referred the petition of Thomas Campbell, a captain in the revolutionary army, praying compensation for military services, reported the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to bring in a bill granting to Mr. Campbell $1000, being the amount of his claim with interest thereon.

On motion of Mr. Eppes, the house resumed the consideration of the unfinished business of yesterday. He then withdrew the sections offered yesterday as amendments to the amendments of the senate, for the purpose of substituting the following, which he considered more perfect in form, and embracing the same principles.

Sec. 1. Be it further enacted, That the commander and crew of any merchant vessel of the United States, owned wholly by a citizen or citizens thereof, and not carrying contraband of war, bound to any port or place not actually invested, with which intercourse shall be prohibited by the decrees or orders of the British government, may oppose and defend against any search, restraint or seizure which shall be attempted upon such vessel or upon any other vessel as aforesaid by the commander or crew of any armed vessel sailing under British colors, and may repel by force any assault or hostility which may be committed on the part of such British vessel pursuing such attempt, and may subdue and capture the same.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the commander and crew of any merchant vessel of the U. S. owned wholly by a citizen or citizens thereof, and not carrying contraband of war, bound to any port or place not actually invested, with which intercourse shall be prohibited by the decrees or orders of the French government, may oppose and defend against any search, restraint or seizure which shall be attempted upon such vessel or upon any other vessel owned as aforesaid, by the commander or crew of any armed vessel sailing under French colors, and may repel by force any assault or hostility which may be committed on the part of such French vessel pursuing such attempt, and may subdue the same.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That whenever the commander and crew of any merchant vessel, shall capture and secure any British or French armed vessel from which an assault or other hostility shall be first made as aforesaid, such armed vessel with her tackle, appurtenances, ammunition and lading shall accrue the one half to the owner or owners of such merchant vessel of the United States, and the other half to the captors: and being brought into any port of the United States, shall and may be adjudged and condemned to their use after due process and trial, in any court of the United States having admiralty jurisdiction, and which shall be holden for the district into which such captured vessel shall be brought—and the same court shall thereupon order a sale and distribution thereof accordingly, and at their discretion, saving any agreement which shall be between the owner or owners, and the commander and crew of such merchant vessel.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That after notice of this act at the several custom houses, no merchant armed vessel bound as aforesaid to places not actually invested, with which intercourse shall be interdicted by the decrees or orders of the government of Great-Britain or France, shall receive a clearance, unless the owner or owners and the master and commander of such vessel, for the intended voyage, shall give bond to the United States in a sum equal to the value of such vessel and cargo, with condition that such vessel shall not make or commit depredation, outrage, unlawful assault or unprovoked violence, on the high seas, and that the guns, arms and ammunition of such vessel shall be returned within the United States or otherwise accounted for, and that such owner or owners and the commander and crew of such merchant vessel, will in all things conform to the provisions of this act, and to such instructions as the President of the United States, in pursuance thereof, shall from time to time establish—&c. it shall be the duty of the collector to see that no armed vessel, clearing out as aforesaid, shall have on board arms or other warlike stores, except such as may constitute a part of the equipment of the said vessel, and to attach a certificate to that effect to the clearance granted to the vessel.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the president of the U. S. shall be and he is hereby authorized to establish in conformity with the provisions of this act, suitable instructions to and for the merchant vessels authorized to arm for the better restraining the commanders and crews who shall be employed therein. For preventing any outrage or injury which they may be disposed to commit, or the taking on board articles contraband of war, a copy of which instructions shall be delivered to the commander of such vessel when she shall give bond as aforesaid.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That the president of the U. S. shall be and he is hereby authorized to employ the public armed vessels of the U. States, in conveying and protecting vessels of the U.S. owned wholly by a citizen or citizens thereof, not carrying contraband of war & bound to any port or place not actually invested, with which intercourse shall be prohibited by the decrees and orders of the governments of G.

Britain or France, and to instruct the commanders of the armed vessels of the U. States to oppose and defend against search, restraint, or seizure, which shall be attempted upon vessels under convoy, by the commanders or crews of any armed vessel sailing under British or French colors, and to repel by force any assault or hostility, which may be committed on the part of such British or French vessel pursuing such attempt, and to subdue and capture the same.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That any British or French vessel so captured shall be considered lawful prize, and may be condemned in any court in the U. States having competent jurisdiction, and the proceeds of such prize shall be distributed in conformity to the provisions of the act "for the better government of the navy of the U. States."

Mr. Livermore was opposed to the adoption of these amendments; he considered them perfectly Quixotic, as they were an actual declaration of war against both G. Britain and France.

Mr. Key suggested a question of order, on the ground, that the conveying system contained in the two last sections, was before the house in a bill reported by Mr. Burwell from Virginia, some days since, & that therefore the house ought not to receive the proposed amendments of Mr. Eppes.

Before this question was decided by the house, Mr. Eppes withdrew all the sections of his amendment but the two first; and moved that they, together with the bill as it came from the senate, be committed to a select committee, for the purpose of maturing its provisions.

Mr. Gardener was opposed both to the amendments and the commitment. In the course of his observations he was several times called to order, and the chair having decided that he was not in order, he sat down, and when attempting to proceed in his argument, the Speaker decided that he had no priority—from which decision an appeal was taken and the decision of the chair was confirmed by a large majority.—After which Mr. Gardener proceeded to finish his observations, which he did in a masterly manner.

The question on the reference was then taken by ayes and noes, and carried, ayes 74, noes 49.

The committee to consist of nine.

Mr. Eppes stated that as the subject was now referred to a select committee he would for the purpose of preventing questions of order on a future day on the subject, move that the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill relating to conveyances referred to them heretofore. And on the question it was determined in the affirmative Ayes 77—Noes 42. It was then referred to the select committee last raised.

Mr. Eppes then moved to refer the propositions which he withdrew this morning—the 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th sections given above, to the same committee, by way of instructions for their government.

Some conversation on the propriety of this motion taking place it was withdrawn.

Mr. Gardener offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be requested to lay before this house the opinion of the attorney general respecting the right of the United States to the batture at New Orleans claimed by Edward Livingston. Agreed to.

Adjourned.

Extract of a letter from a correspondent at Martha's Vineyard, to the Editors of the N. 2. Mercantile Advertiser.

"The brig Retrieve, captain Perrington, arrived here on Saturday, 38 days from Liverpool, bound to Boston. The Retrieve sailed from Liverpool on the 20th of Dec. at which time it was not publicly known, that Mr. Jackson had been dismissed by the American government. In lat. 48, long. 19, fell in with the wreck of the ship Two Friends, of Greenock, from Quebec, laden with lumber—found a note in a bottle, which stated, that the crew, 8 in number, had subsisted 8 days upon one rat, when they were taken off by the French privateer La Petit Garcon, of Bordeaux.

An American vessel belong to Boston was picked up in the British channel about the middle of Dec. deserted by the crew, and robbed of her sails and several other articles.

Our correspondent further states, that the markets for American produce in Liverpool were dull. Upland cotton, 17 to 18d New Orleans, 18 to 19, fresh flour 54 to 58 and dull; sugar 46 to 49; pot ashes 31 to 32; pearls 56 to 57; and for articles of other American produce, do alterations."

ORIGINAL FAMILY MEDICINES.

Prepared by RICHARD LEE & SON, have been in high estimation and general use throughout the United States, for upwards of ten years. And, it is no inconsiderable evidence of their utility, that during the above period, numerous imitations of every article, the productions of ignorance and experience, urged by envy and penury, have been intruded on the public; seen for a day, and then perished! Others now succeed them, which in like manner are fast descending to the tomb of the Capulets; while our remedies become more generally used; and acquire a daily accession of deserved celebrity.

Lee's Worm-destroying Lozenges.

This medicine is superior to any ever offered to the public, being innocent and mild certain and efficacious in its operations. Should no worms exist in the body, it will without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders.

Lee's Elixer.

A certain remedy for colds, coughs, asthma, and particularly the whooping cough, so destructive to children.

Lee's Essence of Mustard.

So well known for the cure of rheumatisms, gout, palsy, sprains, &c. &c.

Lee's Grand Restorative.

Proved by long experience to be unequalled in the cure of nervous disorders, consumptions, leanness of spirits, inward weakness, &c.

Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills.

For the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant fevers.

Lee's Sovereign Ointment for the Rich.

Which is warranted an infallible remedy at one application.

Infallible Ague & Fever Drops.

For the cure of agues, remittent, and intermittent fevers.

Lee's Genuine Persian Lotion.

Celebrated for the cure of ring worms, tetter, &c.

Lee's Genuine Eye Water.

An effectual remedy for all diseases of the eyes.

Tooth-ache Drops.

Which give immediate relief.

Lee's Damask Lip Salve.

Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

The Anodyne Elixir.

For the cure of every kind of head-ache.

The Indian Vegetable Specific.

For the cure of venereal complaints.

Those medicines having come into general use, they are frequently purchased not only by Druggists, but by country store keepers to sell again; in order that the purchasers may be confident they have the original genuine medicines; wherever they purchase they have but to observe, that every article of medicine has on the outward wrapper the signature of the proprietors.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE subscriber, after a lapse of time necessarily consumed in the preparation of his house, respectfully announces to the citizens of Alexandria, as well as the community at large, that he has taken for a term of years that noted and eligible establishment known by the name of the CITY
HOTEL, and once occupied by Mr. Gidney, whose distinguished abilities as a Publican gave it an eclat which the subscriber hopes to preserve by his unremitting exertions in affording to all those who may confer on him
the favor of their patronage, genteel and comfortable accommodations. The subscriber deems it unnecessary to indicate the multi-

A NEW NOVEL.

Just Published, and for Sale by COTTON & STEWART;
Price 1 Dollar;
GLENCARN;

OR
THE DISAPPOINTMENTS OF YOUTH,
A NOVEL.

By GEORGE WATTERSTON, Esq.
OF WASHINGTON CITY,
Author of the Lawyer and Child of Feeling.

The celebrity of this author's "LAW-YER," and "CHILD OF FEELING," induced the publishers to engage in this work, and without detracting from the merits of the former, feel themselves justified in stating that his GLENCARN is superior to either.
It is submitted without further recommendation, with a wish, that the American reviewers may give further encouragement to this young gentleman's endeavors to entertain instruct and moralize his fellow citizens, in a way seemingly well calculated to attract their attention.
